

Rise and Fall Audience Guide

We're excited to welcome you to Rise and Fall!
Here is some info that you might find helpful...

Can children get up and move about during the show?

Children are encouraged to stay seated to watch, but if they want to get up and move about feel free to take them outside and then return when they want to. You can come and go as many times as needed.

What happens if my child cries?

If your child becomes unsettled it would be best to take them outside, but you can come back in whenever they feel like it.

Can my child eat during the show?

Please avoid eating during the performance. Breast or bottle feeding is welcome.

Is it okay if my child speaks during the show?

Yes, children often comment on the show as it is happening and it is fine to speak in a hushed tone to your child during the show.

Can the audience play with the balloons?

At the end of the show the audience are invited to play with the balloons. The performer and ushers will make it clear when this point is.

Do any balloons pop during the show?

No balloons are planned to pop in the show, the performance has a gentle quality. However balloons are unpredictable, so there is always a small chance one might pop by mistake in a performance.

What type of balloons are they?

The balloons are biodegradable latex balloons. Some people are allergic to latex, so please don't handle the balloons if this is the case.

Do I stay with my child or leave them to watch the show?

Please stay in the theatre space while your child is watching the show. Please help the ushers to ensure your child doesn't enter the performance space until the correct moment.

Can we take our balloon home?

You are welcome to take the balloon you have played with and continue to explore at home! If you have chosen a balloon that was used in the show, an usher will swop the weight for you and give you a special weight to take home with you.

For questions regarding the performance venue, please check their website or call the Box Office for more details.
